A Pleasant Remedy.

Wife and I landed at San Diego, that beautiful city on the extreme southwestern corner of California, and, after spending a few days at the Horton House, we took saddle mules and visited the valley of the Cajon, where we stopped over night with Captain Miner, the most friendly of hosts.

Early the next morning we began our climb to the Falls of San Diego, Captain Miner accompanying us. He wished to show us a canyon, covered with chapparal, where there lived a million quails. He stated the number with an easy confidence which proved that he had counted them. We accepted his testimony and did not count. It certainly would have been easy to bag a thousand in a few moments, but I begged so hard for them that the captain turned back without the wagon-load which he had promised his good wife to bring with him. The California quail is such an exquisitely beautiful bird, and its family life so sweet, that I would have gone on my knees to prevent the slaughter of the innocents. No person of sensibility can study their little ways and then kill them.

After the captain had left us we kept on by the side of the San Diego river, and before night climbed to the foot of the famous falls. While picketing our mules I discovered two young men busy making camp on the opposite side of a canyon. I called to them, and in pantommie invited them to visit us, which they signaled they would do after supper. I urged them to take supper with us, but they politely declined. An hour later, just as we had finished our desert of oatmeal mush, our neighbors came. One was a tall, brown-haired, bright-eyed gentleman, of perhaps twenty-six; the other a slight, blonde lad of eighteen. We were much impressed with their intelligence, and pleased with their gentle bearing toward each other. It was in strange contrast with our wild surroundings and with their rough corduroy pants, flannel shirts and pith hats.

They told us they had long been intimate friends, and when the health of the younger began to break, and the doctor had warned him that nothing but a year in the saddle would save his lungs, they had left their home in the East and came to the Pacific coast, where they had been climbing through the mountains, with the aid of mustangs, for three months. Already Fred was quite another man.

To illustrate the change, Fred whacked his thigh, and informed us that three months before, that leg was not more than half its present size.

We arranged to meet them again a week later, and already felt that they were dear friends.

They were scarcely out of earshot when my wife seized my arm and whispered the strange question:

"Do you know what I think?"

"I don't; but please stop pinching."

"Fred is a girl," she cried, pinching harder and harder.

"How do you know that?"

"How do I know it? Don't you suppose I know a girl when I see one?" exclaimed my better half.

"My dear, I came to the conclusion long ago that you knew pretty much everything, but will you tell me how you found out that this young man is not a young man at all, but something else. I grant you that he behaves remarkably well, but might not a young man, by some accident, behave himself?"

"Oh, but that sweetness, that softness, that equisite delicacy of manner and speech! I am astonished that you can't see; but then you men are so blind."

"My darling, permit me to call your attention to the fact that you have often spoken of my blindness. I would not have you suppose that I doubt what you say. If you had said this young man was a kangaroo or a gross of tack hammers, I should not dare to doubt it. I am only trying to find out your signs of sex."

My better three-quarters made no reply, but went on to say:

"What can it mean? Nothing wrong, I am sure. They are beautiful people, and I know would do nothing improper; but what can it mean?" Before their next coming my wife shook her head and said, "What can it mean?" many times.

When they came again we were very glad to see them, and they seemed glad to see us.

We recalled that Fred had worn a pair of buckskin gloves when calling on us at the Falls, and had shaken hands without removing them. We had not been especially impressed with the circumstance, for we both wore the same sort of gloves from morning till night, and often slept in them, but on the occasion of their second visit we noticed, and thought if the gloves were removed, Fred's hands would be remarkably small. This tended to confirm my good wife's suspicions.

Our friends invited us to dine with them the next day, and when they were fairly out of hearing, my wife grasped my arm, and in that same excited whisper asked:

"What do you think now?"

"Think?" Why, I think we have met a couple of well-bred young gentlemen, and—"

"Well-bred fiddlesticks! I declare, you men are stone blind. Now, do you pretend to say that you don't see that 'Master Fred,' as the other calls him, is nothing but a girl."

"'Nothing but a girl,' is rather cool nowadays, when a man hardly dares to open his mouth in the presence of a woman of any age," I said, as bravely as I dared, to my better seven-eighths.

My devoted companion kept it up. That night when I was just dropping off to sleep, she reached over, gave my blanket a jerk to rouse me, and exclaimed:

"Why, her whole style, her walk, her voice, her chin, her beautiful eyes, her delicacy and sweetness of manner, and his tenderness toward her—it is all as plain as can be. They are just married; she is threatened with consumption, and as this dress is so much better for saddle work in the mountains, etc, etc. Oh, I see it all just as plain as the nose on your face."

I knew my nose was a big one, and my wife's favorite object for illustrating vast things, but I knew likewise it was a dark night, and that I was lying with my face turned from her. I said nothing but began a series of evolutionary snores, which she finally accepted as genuine, but which, as one can never hear the real sounds in himself, were probably not a good imitation.

She roused me the next morning, and told me of a curious dream she had had about the beautiful bride in breeches. On the way over we rode side by side, where a trail was wide enough to give our mules a chance, and discussed our scheme.

Our welcome was very warm; the dinner was excellent. We had finished the stewed-canned oysters, and canned turkey with cranberry sauce, and canned green peas, and were busy on the dessert of canned strawberries and peaches, when my wife opened our little "game." Addressing herself to Mr. Morton (Fred), she asked:

"Don't you think, Mr. Morton, if a lady were sick, say of consumption, and needed to live a year or two in the saddle, it would be a capital plan for her to adopt a man's dress and then secure all sorts of freedom?"

Our plan was to look Fred square in the face at the conclusion of the question. It was evidently a bull's-eye shot. He blushed and turned a look of astonishment and interrogation upon his companion, which proved that my wife was right. She always is.

Then without waiting for them to change the subject, I took up my part, and said:

"We met a couple the other day, the most beautiful people I have seen in years; the bride lived in the saddle, was dressed in men's clothes, and was rapidly recovering from genuine consumption."

"Where did you meet this couple?" asked Major Barton, by which name Fred addressed his companion.

"At San Diego Falls," was my reply.

Then we gazed at the Major. This was our programme. He looked at his companion. They both turned all sorts of colors, and we all burst into roars of laughter. Then followed a long and most interesting talk. My wife had guessed the exact truth; Fred was a bride. The family physician had pronounced his case genuine, pulmonary consumption, and had shaken his head over the near future.

The young people consulted together, and after much anxious doubt, but with the full consent of friends, were married.

After a deal of trouble they succeeded in obtaining the proper measurement for Fred's corduroys, and in ten days were climbing the rugged sides of the Sierra Nevadas. They had been zig-zagging through the mountains, and in three months had reached the point where we first met them.

A curious change came over Fred's manners. As soon as the facts were known to us, I imagine he felt very much as Eve did when she became aware that her clothing was very scanty. Whereas Fred had slapped his thigh, talked of the growing muscle, and strided about like other young fellows, now he excused himself, took something out of a bag, went behind a clump of bushes, and soon returned with a blanket arranged like a woman's skirt.

I recall these facts nearly four years after the close of our camp life on the Pacific coast. The occasion was an exciting scene in Central Park, New York. Wife and I, with the old camping instinct upon us, were sitting under a tree in a shady nook in that beautiful park, watching the saddle riders. A pair of wild ones were coming, and I exclaimed:

"Those must be mustangs; no other horses could do like that."

Instantly my wife clutched me in that same old place, and cried out:

"It's Fred! it's Fred!"

We sprang to our feet. The recognition was complete all around. The horses were the same they rode in California. Quiet enough they were there, eating what they could pick up; but here with oats and thorough grooming, they were full of the very dickens.

The next day we dined with our friends It was hard to recognize in our beautiful hostess the thigh-slapping Fred of the mountains.

I complained that the long silken skirt did not look natural.

Mrs. R. [we now for the first time learned their real name] invited us to spend the next evening with them. Mr. R. opened the door and told us they had sent their servants out for the evening. In the grand parlor we waited for our hostess. In came Fred in the same old corduroys, woolen shirt, old boots and pith hat.

He went striding about the room, regular free and easy mountain fashion, and when the shouts of laughter had subsided, slapped his thigh and said:

"When I went to the Pacific coast that leg was so small and soft that it could hardly carry me; now it is big enough and solid enough to carry me through a long life."

"Yes," exclaimed the proud and happy husband, "my wife would not part with those clothes, nor with her splendid horse. She feels, as I do, that they have saved her life. We believe that a good saddle-horse, properly ridden, can carry a consumptive from the grave back into the midst of life and health."

I will add, that I have seen many remarkable restorations from advanced consumption through life in the saddle. I think the chances are about as good here as in California.—[Dio Lewis, in Nuggets.]

A Cabin 300 Years Old.

Upper Darby township, Delaware county, Pa., boasts of a real old-time log cabin, and tradition says that it was at one time occupied by an English peer and afterward the home of an Indian chief. It is on the property of Thomas Kent, the well-known manufacturer, and is only a short walk from Philadelphia and Baltimore pike.

It has stood there for over three hundred years, and history says was built by an English nobleman, who, with a number of friends, came to this country on a hunting expedition and selected the site as their headquarters. After the Englishmen returned to their native shores it was occupied by a chief of one of the Lenni tribe of Indians for many years, until at last, by the advent of the pale faces, the red man was compelled to move toward the setting sun.

The log cabin is in a remarkably good state of preservation, and excellent workmanship is displayed in its construction. The cellar is very deep and is divided into many apartments and recesses, supposed to have been used as the place where the Englishmen stored their old wines and liquors, and some queer looking old bottles and casks are to be seen on the shelves. The cabin at present is occupied by an aged couple, who keep a little candy store and also charge a small commission fee to those who are curious enough to see the interior of the old structure.

What Children Should Eat.

Few things are so difficult to manage as the dietary of our little ones. Love leads us quickly to the conclusion that what they like is best for them; and so we say, yes, yes, yes, certainly my darling, certainly; poor dear he shall have what he wants. This gushing indulgence leads straight to bad breath, rotton teeth, pale face, dyspepsia, bowel disease, and death. I have not one doubt that a large part of these misfortunes of childhood come from the table. Every block has its candy store, every house its table covered with sweet, innutritious stuffs. A diet of grains, good bread, milk, and fruits, would leave the child's breath sweet, teeth white, its digestive machine healthy, its health good. It is too bad that our American children should be so treated. The child of the New World is worth ten times as much to the race as a child in Asia. American children ought to be well used; they may have a glorious future. We are killing them off by the hundred thousand with our amiable saccharine indulgences. Practically it is equivalent to a conspiracy against the welfare of the country to turn these little ones loose among cakes, candies and sweetmeats. Parental indulgence is the largest obstacle in the pathway of American childhood.

A Guard for Prisoners.

The Famous Nigger Hounds of the South.

An Exhibition of Their Wonderful Noses at a Georgia Convict Camp.

While at Oldtown I saw a race between a convict and the hounds. It came about in this way:

Mr. Williams claimed, and he was backed by Capt. James, that any convict could be selected out of a hundred and sent off to circle through the woods, passing through a dozen squads of convicts; that, an hour later, he could put his hounds on the convict's track, and they would thread him through the squad of convicts, never be shaken from his indiyidual track, and finally bring him up.

I remarked that I could understand how the hounds might carry a convict's track through a crowd of outsiders from some scent of the camp, but not how they could separate one convict from another.

'There may be a hundred convicts,' he said, 'clothed precisely alike, and wearing precisely the same shoes. They may feed together on precisely the same food, and sleep in bunks that touch each other under precisely the same cover. And yet each one of them has a scent that marks him just as distinctly to my hounds from his fellows, as his appearance marks him under your deliberate study.'

'And do you expect me to believe that the dogs can catch this scent from the flying touch of his thick shoes on the hard ground?'

'Undoubtedly. And further. He may stop in a squad and change shoes with a convict, and the dogs will still follow him. On the hardest ground, his scent will be plain to them, though his shoe soles are half an inch thick. When he runs through the woods, where his clothes touch the bushes, they will trail him heads up, in full cry, fifty yards, running parallel, but away from where he ran.'

'Do you mean that you can take fifty convicts, all clad in convict suits, let them run through the bushes, then send the convict the dogs are trailing through the same bushes, and the scent of his body left on the yielding twigs as his clothes brushes them, will lead the hounds through the maze?'

Yes, fifty yards away, they will run it parallel at full speed. To prove this I will start a convict. I will let others follow him through the woods. I will let him make a semicircle in the woods with fifty yards' radius. When the hounds come to this, instead of following the curve they will scent the opposite side of the circle, fifty yards away, cut across to it, take the track up there and follow it.'

A gaunt convict, long of leg and flank, was selected for the run. He was told to put off quickly, circle in the woods, take a swift run over the fields, roads, and through every squad of convicts he could find in his way. This he did. The hounds were then loafing about the stockade yard, as listless a lot of dogs as ever were seen.

'I am tempted,' said Mr. Williams, 'to let the convict ride a horse for a mile or two after he has run awhile. I have had dogs trail a convict on horseback four miles, and then take the track where he jumped from the horse.'

By this time the flying convict was a small speck on the broad fields, and in a moment more had melted into the horizon and was gone, as if, indeed, he had found that liberty for which his soul panted and had gone as the strong-winged birds go when they vanish in the blue ether.

In an hour we mounted our horses. The hounds were still loafing about in the sunshine. Suddenly Mr. Williams, squaring himself in his saddle, blew three quick, short blasts on the cow's horn that hung at his side. As if by magic, the hounds awaked and charged, at his saddle—eager, baying, frantic, 'Nigger!' he said sententiously. Like the wind they were off, nose to the ground, tails up, circling like beagles. Larger the circle grew, the hounds silent as spectres, eyes and nose eating the earth for its secret. 'They will pass over the tracks of convict squads, but will open on the first single track they find. If it is the wrong track we will simply sit still. They will run it a hundred yards or so, and, noting our silence, will throw it off and search again. When they get the right track, we will halloo and start after the hound that has it. The others will join him, and the race is opened.'

At last a red hound, careering like mad across the field, halts suddenly, tumbles over himself, faces about, noses the ground eagerly, lifts his head, 'A-a-o-o-w-u!' and is off like an arrow from a bowstring. 'That's the track,' shouts William, and after the howling hound we go. The other dogs join in pell mell at first, then each hound true to the track, in full cry and at a rattling gait. Away off to the left Capt. James calls attention to a moving speck against the sky. 'That is the convict circling back to camp,' he said. On the dogs went, keen as the wind, inexorable as fate, following the track of the flying convict where it had been laid as lightly as thistle on the firm earth, but where it left its telltale scent all the same. Nothing could shake them off—nothing check their furious rush. Over other tracks made by convicts wearing shoes from the same last and same box they went without hindrance, led by some intangible miracle of the air, straight on a single trail.

'Now we'll see them wind his scent fifty yards away,' said Williams, as we neared a patch of forest. Close to this was a squad of convicts. These we had sent through the woods an hour before. We had made trustles,' walking singly, touch every bush and tree. Then the convict we were trailing was run through, making a half circle, with at least fifty yards' radius. The hounds entered the forest at a hustling pace, a small red dog leading. Suddenly the leader faltered for an instant, with nose in air, then burst with fierce cry to the left, ran obliquely for full fifty yards, with head up, when he took up again the track of the convict, and lowered his head to the ground. He had simply made a short cut across the semicircle, having caught scent of the convict on the bushes more than a hundred feet away. I am aware that this is incredible to those who have never seen it. I cannot explain what it is that the flying man, clad and shod as a hundred others, fed on the same food, chained daily to the same chain, and sleeping in the same bunks at nights imparts to a yielding twig touched by his clothes so that it attracts a hound fifty yards away. But it certainly does just that.

The last test was now coming. We were moving toward a squad of convicts at work in a cotton field. We had sent the fugitive convict through this squad. We had then made them walk in a double circle around him. They then crossed and recrossed his tracks, many of them wearing exactly such shoes as he wore. One hour later the hounds struck this point. There was not an instant's pause. There was no deviation, no let up in the pace. Through the labyrinth of tracks the hounds went, as swallows through the air, hurrying inexorably on the one track they had chosen.

The end was now near. The convict having run his race, was seen leaning against a tree and watching the hounds plunging toward him. 'Won't he climb the tree?' I asked. 'No; the hounds are trained to simply bay the convicts when they come up with them. Otherwise the convicts would kill them.' By this time the hounds had sighted him. They halted about twenty yards away from the tree against which he stood and bayed him furiously. Pretty music they made, and not deeper than I have heard often and again under a 'possum tree. Mr. Williams called them off, and the convict came forward. 'Dem puppies is doin' mighty well, Cap'n,' he said, grinning as he lazily swung by on his way to the stockade.

These dogs are not bloodhounds. I doubt if there is a bloodhound in Georgia, though two are reported near Cartersville, descended from a pair owned by Col. Jeff Johnson in the days of slavery. The Oldtown dogs are foxhounds of the Redbone breed, trained for several generations to hunt men. They are never tempted by other game. They are neither fierce nor powerful, and are relied on solely to trail the convict and lead his pursuers to his lair.

Underclothing.

Many outwardld fastidious persons, who would shrink with horror at the idea of wearing a soiled shirt front, and no matter what thee xpense might be would change collars and cuffs every day, will wear their underclothing two weeks without being washed. The physiologist, aware at all times of the insensible perspiration and the constant passage of effete matter through the pores, would say that it were much more sensible, if needs be, to wear the white shirt two weeks and have the one next to the skin changed at least twice a week. If you see the point we have done our duty and you will probably continue the old style, blockading the drainage from the system, preparing yourself to easily take colds or other diseases. We would prefer as a close companion or bedfellow, a coal heaver or railroad paddy who performed his abolutions daily and changed at night for a calico shirt, to hundreds of persons in the higher walks of life, who wear unsoiled external linen, bathe once in two weeks and in the mean time permit the exhallations from the body to accumulate on their flannels.

Too Much Style.

A prominent New York druggist is spending the Winter in San Antonio, for his health.

'What mout your trade be, stranger?' asked the genial clerk of the local hotel.

'I am a pharmacist.'

'A what did yer say?'

'A pharmacist.'

'Why don't you talk English, and say you are a hoss doctor.'

In The Country Lawyer's Office.

He wanted justice. You could see that in his eyes afar off. He didn't want a little bit of justice weighed out in a gingerly manner and done up in coarse brown paper, but he wanted justice by the car load and at wholesale rates. He hitched his old white horse and dilapidated buggy in front of the drug store, mounted the stairs running up outside to the second story, and his eyes brightened as they rested on the tin sign on the door: 'George Boxem, Attorney-at-Law.' The lawyer was in. So were a two dollar desk, two fifteen cent chairs, a huge cuspidor, and a rusty stove.

'Morning.'

'Morning.'

'I'm Jim White, sir. Live out by Gray's Corners. Bought Tompkins' farm, you know.'

'Ah!'

'Skinner jines farm with me. His steers get into my corn. I want damages, but he laughs at me. I turn my hogs into his 'tater patch.'

'Good! I like a man of spunk.'

'And he kills one of 'em.'

'What!'

'He kills a hog worth two dollars.'

'You don't say! well, that man ought to be made to understand that he dosen't own this country. What! an outrage! Have you demanded pay.'

'Oh, yes, and he said he'd like to shoot me.'

'Is it possible? Why, he's a dangerous man, very dangerous.'

'I came to ask you if—if—'

'Why, of course you have the best kind of a case against him, and it is your duty to push it.'

'Yes, I want justice, but now—how much will—'

'Oh, the cost will be nothing. Just leave me $5 as a retainer and we'll make Skinner sweat. I haven't heard such an outrage for years. He probably reasons that you are chicken-hearted and afraid of him.'

'Well, he'll find that the Whites have as much grit as the Skinners.'

'And as much to law with?'

'You bet!'

'That's the talk! We'll make him a very sick man. Your case appeals to me as a citizen as well as a lawyer. Now, we'll secure a warrant as a starter.'

Skinner visits the other lawyer in the same village, and the conversation is about the same. White gets a warrant for Skinner, and Skinner gets a warrant for White.

First year—Two adjournments, a disagreement, twenty-four days lost time, and a cash expense of $50 to each farmer.

Second year—Three trials, and disagreement, four adjournments, one appeal, and a cash expense of $150 to each farmer. Time lost, thirty-five days.

Third year—Two trials, two appeals, two decisions, and two farms pass in to the hands of two lawyers.—N. Y. Sun.

Married People Would be Happier

If home troubles were never told to a neighbor.

If expenses were proportioned to receipts.

If they tried to be as agreeable as in courtship days.

If each would remember the other was a human being, not an angel.

If each was as kind to the other as when hey were lovers.

If fuel and provisions were laid in during the high tide of summer work.

If both parties remembered that they married for worse as well as for better.

If men were as thoughtful for their wives as they were for their sweethearts.

If there were fewer silk and velvet street costumes, and more plain, tidy house dresses.

If there were fewer "please darlings" in public and more common manners in private.

If masculine bills for Havanas and feminine ditto for rare lace were turned into the general fund until such times as they could be incurred without risk.

AN eminent citizen of Detroit called upon an eminent physician the other day to consult him about his eyes.

'They seemed all right up to three or four days ago,' said the eminent citizen, 'but then I noticed that the left eye was failing.'

'Do you wear glasses?' asked the physician.

'Oh, yes.'

'Let me see them?'

They were passed over, and after a brief inspection the physician broke into a hearty laugh.

'The trouble is with the left eye, eh?' he queried.

'Yes, sir.'

'No wonder. Look at your glasses.'

The left hand glass had been lost out.

L. A. SHAFFER, Secretary. ADAM HOY, Chairman

AMONG the bills introduced in the senate last Monday, was one by Senator Cameron, appropriating $100,000 for public buildings at Wilkesbarre, Pa.

PHILADELPHIA in a recent meeting of citizens, sympathizing with Ireland in its political troubles, subscribed nearly $6000 to the Irish Parliamentary fund.

LORD SALISBURY and his cabinet, after having suffered a complete defeat, have resigned and the Queen has accepted the resignation. This is the end of England's Radical Cabinet and for the present Mr. Gladstone has again charge of that country's government.

SENATOR SHERMAN introduced a bill in the senate the other day providing for the discontinuance of the coinage of silver dollars and to provide for the purchase of silver bullion in bars, and for the issue of coin certificates in payment therefore, the bullion to remain in the Treasury as security for payment of the certificates. This looks like a plausible way out of the intricate silver question pending in the house. But as to his motives his bill smacks of "carrying water on both shoulders."

As the annual financial statement of the Commissioners of Centre County reached us but shortly before we went to press, our space is too limited to go into a detailed comment in this issue. We noticed at a glance however that the county debt has been much decreased and that our commissioners have kept house well. At the rate at which the debt has been reduced since 1882 we may look for a clean sweep of all indebtedness in less than two years hence. Well done, faithful servants.

SECRETARY BAYARD'S family circle was again visited by death on the 31st of January. His wife, after a short but severe illness, namely congestion of the brain, was called to her eternal home. Mrs. Bayard was unconscious for 24 hours before her death. Her quiet burial took place at Wilmington, Delaware, on Monday afternoon. The body was accompanied by the secretary, his two daughters, and Mr. Bryan, the private secretary of Mr. Bayard. The saying "trouble never comes single handed" has surely come true in Mr. Bayards late afflictions.

PRESIDENT CLEVELAND seems fully able to take a firm stand against the republican members of the senate who would demand his reasons for removing certain officials to replace them by fresh and healthy material. These senators seem to be given to the illusion that the President must "dance as they whistle." They might as well make up their minds to knuckle down, because Cleveland will assert his dignity and authority by simply refusing to comply with their unreasonable wishes. The exclusive right of the executive to remove officials and appoint others in their places has never before been disputed and as for the causes for such removals the senators may rest assured that the President would not remove any officer except for "good reasons" and that ought to suffice. We think the people who elected Cleveland to the presidency will stand by him in the executions of his official rights.

The Philadelphia WEEKLY PRESS is now engaged in publishing a series of papers descriptive of the part taken by Pennsylvania troops in the late war. These articles are written by officers in command, or soldiers who participate in the scenes described, and each will be a vivid pen picture of the most important incident in the war experience of the writer. The first of the series was written by J. W. Hofman, who commanded the Fifty-Sixth Regiment Pennsylvania Volunteers, and was entitled "The First Infantry Fire at Gettysburg," and appeared in the issue of January 13th. The second article "Where Reynolds Fell," written by Capt. J. C. Rosengarten, appeared in the issue of January 20th. A long list of Pennsylvania's distinguished soldiers have furnished or are writing articles for this series of papers, and they promise to be the most interesting and valuable of any simular collection of war papers. Back numbers will be supplied until the edition is exhausted. All information can be promptly obtained by addressing The Press Company Limited, Philadelphia, Pa.

Secretary Bayard's Wife Crosses The Dark River.

The Agony Caused by the Sudden Death of Her Beloved Daughter Results in Congestion of the Brain.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31.—Mrs Bayard, wife of the Secretary of State, died at her residence, in this city, at 8.30 o'clock this morning. The immediate cause of Mrs. Bayard's death was congestion of the brain, brought on by the shock of her daughter's sudden death two weeks ago. For the first week following that event she stood the strain and excitement quite well, but a week ago last Friday she was compelled to take to her bed, and gradually grew worse from day to day. On Thursday congestion of tie brain made its appearance. She was unconscious for twenty-four hours before her death. Although for years Mrs. Bayard had been a confirmed invalid, she had for the last six months been in better health than for many years. Last summer she was very ill at her home in Wilmington, Del., with a complication of diseases of the liver and stomach. and her recovery at that time was considered doubtful. At the solicitation of her daughter, Miss Kate, she put herself under the care of Dr. Gardner, of this city, and under his treatment she had improved so much as to be able to go into society this winter, and although still an invalid, she was in comparatively good health when her daughter died. She was about 51 years of age. With the exception of her daughter, Mrs. Warren, of Boston, and her son who is in Arizona, the family were present when she died. The body will be taken to Wilmington for burial to-morrow; and the funeral will be on Tuesday. The death of Mrs. Bayard will have a marked effect on social festivities at the capital.

Miscellaneous News.

CHICAGO, Feb. 2.—The mercury is descending rapidly here to-night and has reached 15 degrees below. Dispatches from the outside note extremely cold weather at points west.

The Cresson and Coalport Railroad is finished, the last spike having been driven on Friday. It is thirty miles in length, extending from Cresson, on the Pennsylvania Railroad, to Iryona, Clearfield County, and opens up valuable coal lands and timber tracts in the Clearfield regio —WHEN your children are threatened with croup or whooping-cough, beware how you lull them to sleep with cough syrups whose principle ingredients are morphia and odium. The natural effort of the lungs to expel the suffocating mucus is coughing. Dr. Kessler's Celebrated English Cough Medicine contains no morphia or opium in any form, and by its stimulating actions on the kidneys, bowels, and pores of the skin, more than any other remedy, assists Nature in breaking up and expelling the worst colds from the system. Money refunded to dissatisfied purchasers. Sold everywhere.

Biggest Snow-Storm Ever Known.

FORT SMITH, Ark., Feb. 2.—The biggest snow-storm ever known here is raging to-day. Snow has fallen for 21 hours and is still falling. It is now 10 inches deep. All travel is suspended and the mails are neither arriving nor departing.

Cattle and Prairie Dogs Frozen.

FORT ELLIOTT, Texas, Jan. 28.—It is estimated that fully 15,000 head of cattle lie dead on the prairies within a radius of 75 miles of this place. The prairie dogs are nearly all dead. Several persons were badly frozen. The lowest recorded by the mercury was 10 degrees below zero.

Destructive Storm in New England.

CONCORD, N. H., Jan. 31.—The storm which ended last night had raged for 47 hours and caused great damage throughout the State. Reports received from some of the largest fruit growers in the State say that their orchards are entirely ruined.

—THE MOST REMARKABLE Case of all. A gentleman writes us from Phillipsburg, Centre Co, Pa., that his little girl was horribly afflicted with scrofula. Her body was full of sores. cars discharging continually thick yellow putrid matter, and her eyes so swollen and inflamed as to be almost blind. One bottle of McDonald's Blood Purifier has to all appearances entirely cured her. Our neighbors as well as ourselves consider the cure remarkable.
A bonafide case. The address of the family can be obtained from the editor of this paper.

Lancaster's Watch Works Start Again.

LANCASTER, Pa., Feb. 1.—The Lancaster Watch Factory started up today after a suspension of over one year. It is expected that after a short time the factory will give employment to 200 hands.

—THE horrible nauseous worm-seed vermifuges and worm syrups have had their day. It's downright cruelty to compel a child to take them when McDonald's Celebrated Worm Powder are so easy and pleasant to take that children take them and never know a medicine is being administered. Can be procured at any drug store for the small sum of 25 cents.

Couldn't See the Train for the Culm Pile.

SCRANTON, Pa., Jan. 29.—Mrs. Julia A. Hunter, a physician practicing at Carbondale, had been to Jermyn this morning on professional business, and was returning to her office in a carriage, accompanied by Mrs. Wesley Stanton and daughter of that place. The latter, a girl of fifteen was driving when the crossing of the Erie Railroad at Carbondale was reached. The 11.30 passenger train for Scranton dashed against the carriage, killing the horse and dragging the carriage and its occupants several yards upon the track. Mrs. Hunter was instantly killed, two great holes being made in her head. Mrs. Stanton was dangerously hurt. Miss Stanton was hurled several yards, but was uninjured. She stated that none of the occupants of the buggy saw the approaching train on account of a high culm pile close to the track; the top of the buggy was also drawn up. Engineer Benscoter says the usual signal was blown and the bell rung.

LIFE.—"All that a man hath," it has been said, "will he give for his life." But this is only true in a narrow and qualified sense. A large majority of people shorten life by becoming victims to Dyspepsia, Billiousness, Constipation, Headache, Malaria, etc. If you continue to suffer from these troubles, you have no excuse, for we tell you plainly that Simmons Liver Regulator will rid you of them and like disorders caused by a sluggish state of the Liver, Stomach or Bowels. Ask the recovered dyspeptics, billious sufferers, victims of Fever and Ague, the mercurial-diseased patient, how they recovered health, cheerful spirits and good appetite—they will tell you by taking Simmons Liver Regulator. This justly celebrated medicine regulates the Liver, promotes digestion and fortifies the system against malarial diseases. See that you get the GENUINE Simmons Liver Regulator, prepared by J. H. Zeilin & Co.

Read what the people say concerning the ability of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil to cure asthma, catarrh, croup, colds, etc. Mrs. Dora Koch of Buffalo, says: "For croup it is decidedly efficacious." [Mrs. Jacob Mellisor of Marion, Ohio, says the same thing.] S. S. Graves, Akron, N. Y., writes: "Had asthma of the worst kind, took one dose of Thomas' Eclectric Oil and was relieved in a few minutes. Would walk five miles for this medicine and pay $5 a bottle for it." Druggist C. R. Hall, Grayville, Ill., says: "Cured an ulcerated throat for me in twenty-four hours." "Sat up in bed and coughed till the clothing was wet with perspiration. My wife insisted that I use Thomas' Eclectric Oil. The first teaspoonful RELIEVED me." E. H. Perkins, Creek Centre, N. Y., Thomas' Eclectric Oil is also a Tip-Top external application for rheumatism, cuts, scalds, burns, bites, bruises, etc. When visiting the druggist, ask him what he knows of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil; if he has been long in the drug trade, be sure he will speak highly of it.

Worked Wonders.

"My daughter was very bad off on account of a cold and pain in her lungs. Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil cured her in twenty-four hours. One of the boys was cured of sore throat. This medicine has worked wonders in our family." Alvah Pinckney, Lake Mohopac, N. Y.

—H. D. Snyder's sale of some household goods will take place to-morrow afternoon at 2 o'clock, at F. F. Wetzel's residence on North street.

—D. S. Kauffman is laid up at present with a very heavy cold. We hope Dan will soon get over this spell and be able to be at his post in the store.

—Costiveness can be permanently cured by the use of Baxter's Mandrake Bitters. Sold by J. Spigelmyer and D. S. Kauffman & Co., Millheim, Pa.

—The carpenters at work on the interior of the new Evangelical church at this place are putting in full time in order to have the edifice ready for conference.

—After another week of severe sickness, Mrs. E. H. Long, North street, is able to be about again. Hope the lady may be favored with lasting health after this.

—Remarked by R. C. Joiner of Allen, P. O. Hilldale Co. Mich: "Nothing gave my rheumatism such quick relief as Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil—believe it infallible for rheumatics."

—You must see it; the "Odorless" Kettle and steamer combined, with patent self-acting cover holder. Best thing out.

—Take notice of P. H. Musser's new card in another column. Philip is kept very busy with repairing watches at present.

—A number of gents from this place made use of the sleighing on Tuesday evening and went to Coburn to attend the first session of the convention.

—The three outlets of disease are the bowels, the skin and the kidneys. Regulate their action with the best purifying tonic, Burdock Blood Bitters.

—Some of the Millheim people are in attendance at the Coburn convention. If sleighing continues there will be quite a crowd going to Saturday evening's concert.

—Mrs. Jacob Whitmyer, of Coburn, who had been prostrated by sickness for several months, was released from her earthly troubles and trials by death on Tuesday evening.

—G. W. Long, the grammar school teacher is suffering with a sore throat, and has not been able to teach on account of it since Monday. At this writing he is improving.

—Every mother should have Arnica & Oil Liniment in the house in case of accident from burns, scalds or bruises. Sold by J. Spigelmyer and D. S. Kauffman & Co., Millheim, Pa.

—We do not sound a needless alarm when we tell you that the taint of scrofula is in your blood. Inherited or acquired, it is there, and Ayer's Sarsaparilla alone will effectually eradicate it.

—Eight fine horses, Six Cows, Several Young Cattle and nine Shoats, besides a lot of good farm implements will be offered for sale at Henry Keen's sale. Remember the date, February 25th.

—Among the new goods received at the Journal Store this week is a complete line of Fine Writing Papers, in sheets, pads and boxes. The Crazy Quilt paper package is a real beauty. Call and see.

—"Who will be the coming man for Justice of the Peace?" is a question that greatly perturbs the minds of many of the voters in our borough at present. Quite likely the man who gets the most votes.

—The Overseers of the Poor of Millheim Borough desire to place a boy, about 15 years of age, strong and healthy, into the care of a reliable man. For further information address Jonathan Harter, Millheim, Pa.

—On Monday was groundhog day and sunny enough for the fellow to see his shadow and return to his lodgings for another six weeks—which means according to an old saying that we may expect six weeks more of cold weather.

PUBLIC SALE.—Mr. David Shafer, of Aaronsburg will sell at public sale on Thursday, March the 18th, on his premises, Six valuable Horses, Twelve head of Cattle, Fourteen large Hogs, Seven Shoats, and a lot of farm implements.

—Wm. H. Smith removed the old bakeoven from his premises southeast of town last Saturday. By degrees William improves the looks of his farm. A coat of paint on the old farm house would make a wonderful change for the better.

—The protracted meeting in the M. E. church of this place is still in progress and is growing more and more interesting. Large congregations are in attendance every evening and the work of conversion is going on under prosperous circumstances.

—Is your liver out of order? Then is your whole system deranged. The blood is impure, the breath offensive, you have headache, feel languid, dispirited and nervous. To prevent a more serious condition, take at once Simmons Liver Regulator.

—It will be a pleasure to those of our readers who are acquainted with the ladies, to learn that the Misses Kate and Maggie Alexander have returned from their western trip in good health. They are staying a few days with their relatives in this vicinity.

REAL ESTATE FOR SALE.—A piece of ground, containing 1 acre and 30 perches, with a good House, Stable, Shop and all necessary outbuildings thereon erected, situate in Miles township, 3½ miles east of Wolfe's Store, is offered for sale by Daniel Prutzman. It is a very desirable home for a laborer or a mechanic. tf

—Mr. Geo. H. Stover, of near Madisonburg, and W. A. Confer, of near Spring Mills, were callers at the JOURNAL office this week, and ordered bills for their sales, to come off on the 23rd and 19th of March, respectively. Ditto Mr. Frank Weaver, of Aaronsburg, and Geo. Guistwite, of Miles township, whose sales will be on the 5th and 11th of March.

—NO GRIPING, no Drastic Purging. Take two or three McDonald's Improved Liver Pills for first dose and follow with one pill every night at bedtime. So quietly and surely will they correct a torpid or disordered Liver and regulate the bowels, that you will feel like a new person by the time you have used one box. Money returned to dissatisfied buyers.

JOHNSTON, HOLLOWAY & CO., Philadelphia Agents.

Sold by J. Eisenhuth, Millheim, Pa.

—The people of this community will be favored with a lecture of high merit by Walter Thomas Mills, a celebrated lecturer from New York City, on Wednesday evening, Feb. 17th, instant. Subject "Political Parties and Public Questions." Admission free. Do not fail to hear him.

NOTICE.—A congregational meeting will be held in the Luth. church next Saturday evening for the purpose of hearing the final account of the Building Committee of said church. The members and public in general are respectfully invited to attend.

COUNCIL.

—Penn street boasts of a new enterprise. Our neighbor, W. N. Auman, familiarly called Coony, has opened a cobbler shop at his residence, and is prepared to do all kinds of repairing and mending of boots and shoes in the best manner of workmanship. Give Coony a call.

—After reading the last item of the Aaronsburg communication we feel that Millheim is far behind other places in social respects. Our people seem to be so absorbed in the pursuit of mercenary and business matters that they forget that one owes something to the social relations of the community.

—THE only reliable catarrh remedy on the market to-day is Ely's Cream Balm, being free from poisonous drugs and offensive odors. It has cured thousands of acute and chronic cases where all other remedies have failed. It quickly cures cold in the head and catarral headache. Price 50 cents. 5 4t

IMPORTANT TO HORSEMEN.—Mr. I. S. Frain, of Walker, Pa., wishes to give notice that he will import a Norman Percheron Stallion, of pure breed, and that the same will stand in this and neighboring valleys this season. Here is a rare chance for raising superior stock and farmers should avail themselves of this opportunity.

—Mrs. Elizabeth Yost, the mother of Mrs. Barnhard, residing on North street, died last Saturday, at the advanced age of 68 years, 5 months and 3 days. The funeral took place on Monday forenoon, when her remains were burried in the old cemetery. Rev. Benj. Hengst conducted the services.

—How often we hear middle-aged people say regarding that reliable old cough remedy, N. H. Downs' Elixir: "Why my mother gave it to me when I was a child, and I use it in my family; it always cures." It is always guaranteed to cure or money refunded Sold by J. Spigelmyer and D. S. Kauffman & Co., Millheim, Pa.

—Hall's Vegetable Sicilian Hair Renewer imparts a fine gloss and freshness to the hair, and is highly recommended to physicians, clergymen and scientists, as a preparation accomplishing wonderful results. It is a certain remedy for removing dandruff, making the scalp white and clean, and restoring gray hair to its youthful color.

—The many who have before this heard Prof. Lowell Meyer sing some of his comic songs, will need no recommendation to hear him on next Saturday evening at Coburn. As a musician and on the stage Mr. Meyer seems to be perfectly at home and never fails to greatly entertain and delight his audience. Do not forget the concert next Saturday evening.

—Little Sammy Weiser's tin shop above the hardware is a busy place. He has seven people at work day and night at different occupations and were it not for the strength of their hardened and wiry bodies they would have succumbed long before this under the severe strain which their tyrannical master puts upon them. Just go and see for yourself—es koscht nix.

—A grand concert is to be given in the old Reformed church at Aaronsburg on Saturday evening, Feb. 20th, inst. The same will be under the supervision of J. G. Meyer. Besides the home talent there will be singers from Rebersburg, Penn Hall, Millheim and other places to participate in the exercises. The renowned solo singer, Prof. Lowell T. Meyer, has promised to be present.

PAINFUL ACCIDENT.—Mr. John Hall, residing on North street, an employe at Confer's planing mill, while at work at one of the machines, accidentally knocked against some props which held up a large board pile, causing the whole pile to upset and fall on both his legs. He was pinned fast in this uncomfortable position until the rest of the workmen could remove the weight from his limbs. He received severe bruises, and being unable to stand, had to be conveyed to his home.

—Report of the Madisonburg Grammar School for the month ending Feb. 1., 1886: No. of males 20, females 18, total 38; average attendance during month—males 18, females 16, total 34. Per cent. of attendance, males 91, females 92, total 92. Per cent. of attendance during term up to date—males 88, females 93, total 91. Visitors during the month: Thos. Shaffer, Jacob B. Hazel, B. F. Bierly, Thos. Wolf, Ed. Miller, Director Miller, Anna Ocker, Ida Ocker, Anna Smull, Emma Ocker, Anna Bierly, Kate Hazel, Minnie Bierly and Wm Keller.

L. RUFUS BIERLY, Teacher.

—THE GREAT ZINGARI. For toothache and neuralgia has no equal. Warranted. Only 15 cents at all drug stores. Johnston, Holloway & Co., Philadelphia Agents.

RAILROAD ACCIDENT NEAR BELLEFONTE.—Tuesday's Harrisburg Patriot says that engine No. 16 hauling a train o empty coal cars from the Snow-Shoe Intersection to the Snow-Shoe Coal Mines, on the Bellefonte and Show-Shoe Railroad, on Monday afternoon, jumped the track at Fountain Station and went over a 20-foot embankment, killing Conductor McMullin and Fireman Little and seriously injuring Engineer Jerry Nolan. The grade at this point being very heavy an engine was used to push the train, and before the pushing engine learned of the accident to the engine in front 11 cars had been pushed over the embankment.

—LECTURE AT REBERSBURG.—Rev. Chas. T. Steck, of Bellefonte, will deliver his great lecture on "Heroism, Recognized and Unrecognized," in the Lutheran church of said place next Thursday evening, Feb. 11th. Rev. Steck's fame as a lecturer is becoming wide spread and every journal in this state and other states speak of his oratorical powers in the highest terms. The Centre Democrat of last week, in an article treating on Rev. Steck's "Problem of Success," another of his great lectures, which he delivered in Bellefonte quite recently, closes as follows:

Want of space will not permit an outline of his lecture; suffice it to say it was both a delight and an inspiration to every hearer. We have no desire to exagerate, our aim is to do simple justice. From the opportunity we have had in Chicago, Philadelphia and New York, to hear and see the very princes of the rostrum we have this to say: Taking both literary merit, and delivery into account, if Mr. Steck has any superior on the American platform we do not know who he is.

The lecture at Rebersburg will doubtless be one of the richest treats ever heard in these valleys and we would advise everybody to turn out and hear it. The proceeds will be for the benefit of the Women's Missionary Society, a good cause which should be liberally supported. Have your 25 cents ready for next Thursday evening.

—The board of revenue commissioners, consisting of W. S. Stenger, secretary of the state; W. Livesy, state treasurer; Jerome B. Niles, auditor general, held a meeting the other day to determine upon the following answers to frequent questions about articles which may and may not be taxed, since the passage of the new state tax law, which seems to confuse many of the taxpayers:

Are bank deposits not bearing interest but subject to check on sight, and money in hand not invested, included in the article, "all other moneyed capital?" No.

Is a dower on real estate taxable? No.

Are deposits bearing interest in national banks, saving banks and private banks taxable? No.

Are musical instruments, pictures, books, &c., to be regarded as household furniture? No.

Are mortgages owned by beneficial associations taxable? Yes.

Are mortgages, judgments, bonds, notes, etc., not bearing interest, taxable? Yes.

Are bonds issued by school districts taxable in the hands of the owners? Yes.

Is the stock of corporations, paying tax on capital stock to the state through the companies, taxable in the hands of the owners? Yes.

Is the stock of the New York Central railroad and other foreign corporations, owned in this state, taxable in the hands of the owners? Yes.

Can a taxable person deduct debts from the amount of his moneyed investments, and only pay tax on the net sum thus shown? No.

If A borrows money from B on a note and lends it to C on a note, are both notes taxable? Yes.

DIED

On the 30th ult., at Millheim, Mrs. Elizabeth Yost, aged 68 years, 5 months and 3 days.

Neighboring News.

PENN HALL.

Mrs. Joe Hoy, of State College, was visiting at J. C. Condo's last week.

The ice houses at this place are all filled and everybody seems happy.

Rumor has it that F. Moyer & Son have dissolved partnership and will retire from the coachmaking business.

Richard, the funny fellow, is still about. Guess you had better stay with us, John.

Mr. John Weirick is off on a trip to Mifflinburg, his former home.

When you take your best girl out sleighriding, make her pay the toll. That is the style here.

The concert, given by the Spring Mills singing class, under the tutorship of Prof. Philip Meyer, was quite a success. Prof. Meyer is a talented musician and always gives his scholars the worth of their money.

The boys all say that Mr. H. G. Shafer, mine host of the Spring Mills Hotel, sports the finest sleigh in the country. It is one of Condo's make.

Mr. T. Benton Ulrich, of the Selinsgrove Times, is here on a visit to his better half.

Our coach makers have disposed of all their sleighs, and we judge will soon start a bank now. JACK PLANE.

COBURN.

Coburn enjoys a trade from one of the finest farming communities in the state, and its territory is larger than that claimed by the county seat. It includes all those fine, wheat-growing farms in Brushvalley, Sugar Valley and the lower end of Pennsvalley. It ships more wheat, more lumber and does a more general traffic business that any three other towns along our railroad. These are not idle, fancy figures, but are based on facts from the railroad company itself. Its access to water power is not excelled by any place we know of. Penns creek is a never-falling stream, and, its course is a straight, rapid decent, and flows between deep banks. We are half surrounded with a magnificent growth of pine timber and have some very fine oak timber within easy distance. The business is represented here, by two grain elevators, two coal yards, two general stores, (the third ready for occupancy in the spring,) one restaurant, one hotel, (another about completed,) two shoemaker shops and one blacksmith shop. A fine opening for a millinery store, and a jewelry store, and one of the best sites in the county for a roller flouring mill. We have three well-organized christian denominations, Reformed, Lutheran and Evangelical, with one fine church edifice. We expect a graded school soon and other much needed wants. Mechanics of all kind are beginning to move here and the time will not be far off when Coburn shall be built up to Millheim and all be incorporated under a new town.

And still our people go to court. 18 tickets sold on Monday morning to "courting" parties.

Our genial bachelor friend, Mr. Henry Stover, is putting the lumber on the ground for a fine mansion. It is to be known as the "Villa on the Hill." Mr. S. is going to try a new game, and we think it will "catch on" too.

Profs. Joe Kleckner and Lowell Meyer are organizing a very fair singing class for this week's convention. The concert on Saturday evening is to be a rich treat.

The new cologne, known in Frogtown as the "favorite" was very odorific at the social hop, Friday eve.

Penns Creek has not been frozen over yet this winter. The ice gatherers are waiting patiently.

Mrs. Jacob Whitmyer, whom we spoke of last week, died Tuesday evening, Feb. 2nd, of consumption, aged 34 years. She was a devout member of the Evangelical church, and a mother of four children. She will be buried at Aaronsburg on Friday morning. Z.

AARONSBURG.

The meeting at St. Paul's is becoming very interesting.

Geo. Bollinger has the agency for Chase & Co's fruit nursery of Geneva, N. Y. George will make a good salesman.

Coburn's correspondent to the JOURNAL "Damfino" ought to know, if he don't know.

Rev. Mountz preached his farewell sermon in the Evangelical church last Sunday afternoon.

Certain parties, who have no legal right to do so, are taking wood from the woodland, north of town, known as the "territory." Prove your right, gentlemen then go ahead.

Prof Bierly's attempt to organize a singing class at St. Paul's [near Woodward] was a failure. It seems the young people are too much interested in the protracted meeting in progress there now, to pay any attention to the rudiments of music.

Last week was a week for tea parties and social gatherings in our burg. On last Thursday evening a few of our town ladies went to the home of Mr. W. H. Stover to inform the lady of the house that it was her 59th birthday. After having some refreshments, prepared by the daughter and accepted daughters of the family, a few hours of pleasant conversation were engaged in and the visiting ladies departed for their homes. A tea party on the evening of the 29th was given by Mrs. Jas. P. Coburn to a number of young ladies and gents, while on Saturday evening following a social gathering was given at the house of Mrs. Eva Rodgers, after which Chas. H. Stover invited the entire company to his place to engage in a social hop, swing around and dance to. Surely this was a week of enjoyment for both Old and Young.

ANOTHER.

Rebersburg and Vicinity.

Checker playing is a popular pastime around here.

The license of landlord Meyer has expired—therefore no strong drinks at present.

Cook Condo has rented a house in Lock Haven and intends to move there ere long.

Geo. Brachbil has built a new shop in which he intends to manufacture shoe pegs, &c. Quite an enterprise for our burg.

Mr. Henry Meyer, formerly of this valley, but now of Cedar Rapids, Iowa, is at present here visiting his many friends. Henry speaks highly of Iowa.

Last week, when Jacob Shultz was off to Lock Haven, one of the horses he was driving took sick and died of colic.

Guiswite and son have purchased the Royer tract of timberland, on which they intend to move their saw mill, at present located at Fowler's station.

Mr. Daniel Musser, residing at the east end of this valley, and his two son-in laws, Prutzman and McCaleb, will leave this spring for California, where they intend to locate.

SQUIBOB.

SMITH TOWN.

Our horse jockey, Ed. Swartz, traded horses again, A gray this time.

Daniel Condo, of Rebersburg, was here on business last week.

Mr. Noah Stover, of Millheim, sold some fifteen acres of his fine timberland to Judge Whitmer. They began sawing on Monday.

Henry Keen's smoke house was reduced to ashes last Friday night, with all its contents.

We hear of another wedding to take place in the near future. Boys, get your serenading utensils ready. 'Tis a fact.

There will be another spelling bee in the Pike school house next Wednesday evening. A general invitation is extended.

T. M. Osman, teacher of the Pike school, makes the following report for the month of January: No. on roll—males 20, females 15, total 35; Average—males 17, females 12, total 29; Per cent. of attendance during term up to date—males 85, females 74, total 80. Visitors: Miss Mary Harshberger, Miss Minnie Duck, Prof. P. J. Auman, W. T. Auman, Geo. A. Schuyler.

An Efficient Remedy

In all cases of Bronchial and Pulmonary Affections is AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL. As such it is recognized and prescribed by the medical profession, and in many thousands of families, for the past forty years, it has been regarded as an invaluable household remedy. It is a preparation that only requires to be taken in very small quantities, and a few doses of it administered in the early stages of a cold or cough will effect a speedy cure, and may, very possibly, save life. There is no doubt whatever that

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral

Has preserved the lives of great numbers of persons, by arresting the development of Laryngitis, Bronchitis, Pneumonia, and Pulmonary Consumption, and by the cure of those dangerous maladies. It should be kept ready for use in every family where there are children, as it is a medicine far superior to all others in the treatment of Croup, the alleviation of Whooping Cough, and the cure of Colds and Influenza, ailments peculiarly incidental to childhood and youth. Promptitude in dealing with all diseases of this class is of the utmost importance. The loss of a single day may, in many cases, entail fatal consequences. Do not waste precious time in experimenting with medicines of doubtful efficacy, while the malady is constantly gaining a deeper hold, but take at once the speediest and most certain to cure,

JEALOUSY AFLOAT.

On the boat going up the river, the other day, was a couple of whom every body soon took notice. It was plain enough that they had had a row, and that the wife was as mad as a wet hen. When she had taken a seat the husband walked up and down, and glowered at everybody and seemed to murmur threats of vengeance. On the deck, sitting by himself, was a red-shirted, big-fisted giant of a chap, about 40 years of age. Presently the woman gathered up her parcels and walked over and shook his hand and sat down beside him and began a cheerful chat, explaining, however:

'My husband is terribly jealous of me, and I want to bother him.'

'All right, marm,' replied old Hercules. 'Just chat and chin to yer heart's content, and I'll larf and larf, and slap my leg where the applause comes in.'

The bold action puzzled the husband for a few minutes, but presently he walked up to the pair and said to the man:

'Are you an old acquaintance of hers?'

'I should remark that I was, your Honor. Knowed her for the last thirty odd.'

'H'm! Who are you?'

'They calls me William the Conkerer when they have time; when they don't, they cut it short to Bill the Conk. And what might your own handle be?'

'Humph! Mary, come with me.

'I'm entirely comfortable,' she replied.

'Mary, I want you.'

'Which is to remark,' said William, as he rose up, 'that when a lady puts herself under my protection, and a fly gent comes around with his chin music, Bill the Conk is in duty bound to pertect her. Stranger, you skip!'

'Sir!'

'Which is to say that you will skip or swim.'

William reached out, but the husband retreated and sat down at a safe distance, and for two long hours he must have suffered torture. The wife chatted, William slapped his leg, and the passengers winked; and the couple landed at one of the club houses, the man in the red shirt handed the lady ashore like a cavalier, and called out:

'I tumbles to the object, my lady, and if William the Conkerer kin ever be of assistance again, jist gin me a blast on your fog horn and I'll be thar till death.'—Detroit Free Press.

The Value of Exercise.

By an irrevocable physiological law, growth of brain and body is acquired by exercise. Look at the arm and hand of the laboring man or woman, and how yast the difference in the size and strength of the two classes! The same law holds respecting the lungs and other vital organs. The heart of him who creeps through the world languidly and mincingly is small and weak in its power to circulate the blood, while the heart of the laborer who rushes into active business earnestly, and uses his muscles vigorously, is called upon her energetic action in sending the blood copiously to all parts of the system, and the consequence is an increase in the size and strength of that important organ, and the promotion of bodily health and vigor.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS.

Are you disturbed at night and broken by your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with pain of cutting teeth? If so, send at once and get a bottle of MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP FOR CHILDREN TEETHING. Its value is incalculable. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately. Depend upon it, mothers, there is no mistake about it. It cures dysentery and diarrhoea, regulates the stomach and bowels, cures wind colic, softens the gums, reduces inflammation, and gives tone and energy to the whole system. MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP FOR CHILDREN TEETHING is pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female nurses and physicians in the United States, and is for sale by all druggists throughout the world. Price 25 cents a bottle.

Surface Indications

What a miner would very properly term "surface indications" of what is beneath, are the Pimples, Stics, Sore Eyes, Boils, and Cutaneous Eruptions with which people are annoyed in spring and early summer. The effete matter accumulated during the winter months, now makes its presence felt, through Nature's endeavors to expel it from the system. While it remains, it is a poison that festers in the blood and may develop into Scrofula. This condition causes derangement of the digestive and assimilatory organs, with a feeling of enervation, languor, and weariness—often lightly spoken of as "only spring fever." These are evidences that Nature is not able, unaided, to throw off the corrupt atoms which weaken the vital forces. To regain health, Nature must be aided by a thorough blood-purifying medicine; and nothing else is so effective as which is sufficiently powerful to expel from the system even the taint of Hereditary Scrofula.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla,

The medical profession indorse AYER'S SARSAPARILLA, and many attestations of the cures effected by it come from all parts of the world. It is, in the language of the Hon. Francis Jewett, ex-State Senator of Massachusetts and ex-Mayor of Lowell, "the only preparation that does real, lasting good."

QUAKER
Is the Best
TABLE SAUCE.

Thousands of articles are now manufactured that in former years had to be imported, paying high import duty as it is now being done on Lea & Perrins table sauce; the QUAKER TABLE SAUCE takes its place; it has been pronounced by competent judges just as good and even better. The QUAKER SAUCE has Slowly but surely gained great importance and is replacing the very best imported sauce on the shelf of the grocer, the tables of the restaurant and the tables of the rich and poor men, greatly prized and relished by all on account of its piquancy, aroma, taste, strength and pureness. The inventor has by years of study of the secret virtues contained in the aromatic spices of the Indies and China, such as mace, nutmeg, cinnamon, genuine Jamaica ginger, and peppers and buds of trees unknown to most men, and by long practice succeeded to combine their extracts in such a liquid form as we now find it, of agreeable taste, and so invigorating as to be taken in place of stomach bitters. By manufacturing this sauce here, heavy import duties and freights are saved, and it is sold at a lower figure to the dealer, who making a better profit on Quaker Sauce can sell it to the consumer cheaper than the very best imported article hardly equaling ours. If your grocer does not keep it, write us for prices, etc. Sold in bottles or by the gallon.

GENERAL WINFIELD SCOTT'S GIGANTIC SIZE AND CURIOUS LETTER.—Every one has noticed the heroic size attributed to General Winfield Scott in his statues and portraits. Few of them are exaggerations of his real proportions. He was six feet four and a half inches high, and perfectly formed. In his full dress uniform he presented a superb appearance. It is said the dimunitive Mexicans were awe-struck when they saw him, and that many of them attributed the success of the American to the grand physique of its leader.

The general was greatly inconvenienced by his unusual size, and whenever he had an opportunity always had special preparations made for his comfort. In an old autograph album in Washington I find this letter written by his hand:

WASHINGTON, D. C., }
Friday, June 15, 1860. }

Proprietors Girard House, Philadelphia:

GENTLEMEN—Expect me at the Girard House to-morrow night at eleven o'clock, and please give me a bed at least six feet six inches in length or one without a foot board.

Yours respectfully,
WINFIELD SCOTT.

VIOLATING HIS CONTRACT.—"Pa," said Bobby, who had been allowed to sit up a little while after dinner with the distinct understanding that he was to ask no foolish questions, "can God do everything?"

"Yes."

"Can He make a two-foot rule with only one end to it?"

"One more question like that," said the old man, and you will be packed off to bed."

Bobby nodded sleepily for ten minutes and then asked:

"Pa, can a camel go seven days without water?"

"Yes."

"Well, how many days could he go if he had water?"

The next thing Bobby knew he was in bed.

——An Irish priest, wishing to explain the nature of a miracle to a skeptical parishioner, gave him a tremendous kick. "Did it hurt ye?" asked the reverend father. "Hurt!" exclaimed the victim, tenderly solacing the aggrieved region with his hand, "ye may well ask that." "Well, then," said the clergyman complacently, "it would have been a miracle if it hadn't hurt ye."

——Goggleeop: "Very stupid girl, that Miss Wilpin."

Hamworth—"How so?"

"Why, you see we were guessing conundrums the other evening, and I asked her what the difference was between myself and a donkey?"

"Well?"

"Well,' why, by Jove, she said she didn't know."

——An Austin boy came from school very much excited, and told his father that all human beings were descended from the apes, which made the old man so mad that he replied angrily: "That may be the case with you, but it ain't with me, I can tell you that now, my son."—The boy didn't say any thing, but when his mother came home he told her about it.

——"Now, John," said the keeper of a cigar store at closing up time to his boy, "take the Indian figure from the door and lay it down behind the counter."

"Hadn't we better let it stand behind the counter?" said John.

"Why so?" asked the employer.

"Because figures never lie, you know."

——There are now about five hundred American residents in Japan. They are found chiefly at four open ports, though a few live inland, and are employed by the Japanese Government. Three-fourths of these Americans are missionaries, directly or indirectly.

——An upright magistrate is one who has sense enough to see the right and pluck enough to do it. The clear head is needed as well as the brave heart.—Stupidity on the bench is the unconscious but efficient ally of venality.

——Peace is the evening star of the soul, as virtue is its sun, and the two are never far apart.

The Way We Used to Do.

When the new Boy Came he was Promptly Initiated.

The new boy had moved in—that is, the family which owned the new boy had moved in. It was quite likely the new boy would show up in the back yard during the afternoon and so, after school, seven boys headed that way. The new boy had only been seen from a distance. Was he sassy? No one could answer. Would he fight? No one could tell. He must be tried! It was the solemn duty of every boy in that neighborhood to make this important discovery at the earliest possible moment. If he could be licked, well and good; if he was a fighter——!They breathed hard over the thought.

In half an hour seven heads appeared above the alley fence behind the new boy's house. He seemed to be expecting them, and had heaped up a peck of green tomatoes at the foot of a plum tree.

The seven glared down at him. He glared up and back.

"What cher want?"

It was the new boy and there was "sass" in his tone.

"None o' yer bizness!"

It was one of the seven who answered.

"Git off'n that fence!"

"We won't!"

"I say git off!"

"Shan't do it!"

The new boy stooped for his tomatoes, but when he raised up the seven heads were gone. It was settled he was sassy. Would he fight?

"You there?" from the alley.

"Who?" from the yard.

"You dasn't fight!"

"Yes I dast."

"Dasn't come over!"

"You see!"

He came over. It had been settled that Johnny Flynn should tackle him, and Johnny was ready. He grabbed for the new boy's hat, and the new boy grabbed for his coat, and they tugged and twisted.

"Sick him, Johny!"

"Clean him out!"

"Pull his hair!"

But the new boy had the best of it. And he came down on the top of Johnny and gouged his eye and bit his finger, and offered to lick any one else in the crowd. His father came out just then, and the seven ran away, but the evidence was all in. The new boy would not only sass and fight, but he was boss. Before sundown that night he was presented with two big bites from an apple, three marbles, a ball of kite string, and half a pound of brown sugar in an old straw hat, and other boys were waiting to shower honors and presents upon him at sunrise.

A Strange Apparition in Mercer County.

Valentine Dam, a moulder in a stove foundry near the Valley mill, told a strange story last night to the Dispatch correspondent. A thorough investigation has confirmed the main facts of the statement. Several weeks ago as his wife was returning home from a visit she noticed seated in the window of her house what seemed to be the figure of a middle-aged lady, who wore a look of deep melancholy. Her head was resting on her hand. Unlocking the door, Mrs. Dam entered the room, to find it unoccupied, nor did a careful search reveal the presence of any person. A day or two afterward a neighbor entered and inquired the name of the strange lady seated in the front room. Both women looked into the apartment, but it was unoccupied.

The vision was seen frequently from this time. The place was visited daily by curious people and they were not disappointed, as the figure could be seen perfectly through the window in the one position, the head resting on the hand. Dam himself never saw the vision, although he frequently stood surrounded by a group of friends, all of whom swore that they saw the mystery. The descriptions given by different people tallied exactly. Dam's wife finally grew so nervous and scared over the thing that at her desire the family moved and now reside on Elm street. Since they have changed their residence they have not been troubled by the apparition. They are not superstitious and gave the names of many people living in the vicinity who will vouch for the story.—Pittsburg Dispatch.

SORRY FOR THE OLD MAN.—Arkansaw School Teacher (to boy)—Why didn't you come to school yesterday?

Boy—Pap wouldn't let me.

Teacher—Why?

Boy—'Cause mam was sick.

Teacher—Wanted you to wait on her, I suppose?

Boy—No; wanted me to wait on him. Mam allus does.

Teacher—Does he need
